

Lean Enterprise Institute
lean.org

The LEI senior executive series on ...

Lean Leadership

As part of a continuing series on the challenges of leading and sustaining lean transformations, the Lean Enterprise Institute will interview executives from a variety of companies to learn how they changed the ways they managed and led in order to create lean cultures. Here are the interviews to date in alphabetical order:

- Dan Ariens, CEO of Ariens Co.
- Jack Billi, M.D., associate dean and associate vice president for medical affairs University of Michigan Medical School
- C.J. Buck, CEO of Buck Knives
- Michael Hoseus, co-author with Jeffrey Liker of Toyota Culture; former general manager at Toyota Motor Manufacturing, KY
- Hank McHale, manufacturing CEO
- Chris Vogel, senior vice president, Wells Fargo Home and Consumer Finance
- Karl Wadensten, president, VIBCO
- John Wilson, executive vice president of manufacturing, New Balance Athletic Shoe, Inc.
- Joel Zeller, director of logistics for Polaris Industries and Robert Martichenko, LEI faculty member

Other relevant links:

John Shook's eletters on lean management

An archive of Jim Womack's eletters

Gemba Coach column by Michael Ballé